

IGNITE A NATIONAL MOVEMENT TO INSPIRE GIRLS

We believe that when you add women and girls, you change everything.

We are leaders and dreamers.

We are the future.

And, we want help making positive change –
for ourselves and the world around us.

This declaration calls on everyone in the Obama Administration to:

Become a mentor this year.

We need role models who can show us that no dream is too big or too wild.

If we can dream it, we can do it.

If we can imagine it, we can be it.

Look at the world through our eyes.

We ask President Obama to take a moment to consider how every piece of legislation may affect girls and women before he signs it.

Ignite a national movement to inspire girls.

On April 22nd, we ask The Administration to accept this Declaration from us powerful girls and women at a proposed ceremony celebrating “Take Our Daughters and Sons to Work Day.”

Make sure your voice – and dreams – are heard by signing now.

www.thewhitehouseproject.org/barbie

The word "Barbie" in its signature pink cursive font, with a small 'TM' trademark symbol at the bottom right.

The words "THE WHITE HOUSE PROJECT" in a blue, sans-serif font, stacked vertically and enclosed in a blue rectangular border.

